MRC SEYMOLE AND MR RECHAMAS.
Altogether I found that Mr. Seymone recombled Junes Buchtman more than any other pather with longer I. But if anything could have been the fact that Seymone and how the files decees it would have been the fact that Seymone as to be the fact that Seymone cased the active practice of the laborator are to true for a challenger to work the street size. Buchman and Seymone cased the active practice of the laborator are not seen for the law at the same agres. Both took up committy residences in sight of their capierive cities. Seymone's home is almost as much a backelor's as Buchman's. They are worth about the estimation.

sy presence as a signt of an array to be considered as Berdmann's. They are worth about the same is a Berdmann's. Their pointed equital is on the same bank department. Without his manners Bornin Seymour is simost as much a corpse new as Buchairm.

The latter was the larger type of man. He had convertions, after they were sorry ones. He arise within his party by force of ment, and never descended to the practical hypocrapy of pulling the strings. When he was nonlinated it was no surprise sprung upon his organization like the Duke of Ghoster's marpaston. The old man in his colin—large, distinguished, composed was, though a salina, a man who probably died with all his self respect.

M. Seymour is dittier creation. His tace is amondmed wriggle. Its expression is a dodge.

From the sulphtrone stage, full of these strong dramatis principle to the Democratic party have gone down under the traps and wiringra to the Boar and brought up the stage carpenter to its hero. And this is here selected little man with a smooth tought, leeble heatin and a reactant fear of able cration, whose art is too wherefathe rain, promise the minitious, and charm the religious. His three great monuments have been the veto of the prolithery law, the New York roots and the compact of the Democratic Convention. Let us look at them.

ONE OF SERVIOUR'S DINNER PARTIES.

You remember how doversor Seymour, against the respectable sensuagement of the State at the time, vetoed the total distance law in 1852. Let me revive the dremmstances attending to it, not to illustrate the temperance question, but to show the artifliness of Seymour in sedacing men—an art in which he is peer only to Fernando Wood, whom he resumbles in some sort.

Seymour's object in this vice we to get the reportseting graditude and attachment of the legion interest, while at the same time he should not be visited with the wrath of the especiability of the State. Unless respeciable, Seymour is nertely plausible. To effect this, he devised, as is his custom, a dinner party. He knew that to flatter a man with a compliment scal scheece him on a full stomach were combined in a dinner. To this dinner he invited Judge Watson, the only convivalitation the bench of the State, and also Dr. Nott, of Hamilton College, and Mr. Delavan, of Islaikon Se.

Hid Watson before the opening of the dinner,

Dr. Nott, of Hamilton College, and Mr. Delavan, of Ballaton Spa.

But Watsun before the opening of the dinner, with a familiar contempt for Seymour's pulaver offorence, you talk temperance with Mr. Delavan and theology with Dr. Nott, and I'll amuse myself with the hottles. To know how actus this dinner party was, you must remember that Dr. Eliphalet Nott was Seymour remembers that Dr. Eliphalet Not was Seymour remembers and the President of his college.

To know how actius this dinner party wee, you must remember that it. Eliphatet Nott was 825 must remember the property of the N. w York Institute the name of the author of "English Photographs ty an Americance movement in New York, flattered by high official society. Both old gentlemen watered at the uyes to see the Governor's pain. He blew a tear out of his nose and proceeded:

"I had set my heart on this matter. I examined the law. The liw I was sworn to uphold. About the law others may did! r with me, but my conscience, my oath, my honor, tries in vain to interpret it so. It is sad, it is melandolly, it is mountful. Thus is the pang of public office.—

To the state of the conversor carry all the stakes. That meth old Mr. Dels can went to the telegraph effice and sent a message to New York.

They all boo-though the office and booke the courage of the temperance movement, signed by such a man. It was to this effect; which was reproduced all over the State and booke the courage of the temperance movement, signed by such a man. It was to this effect; "They all boo-though from the feet "I have just dined with the Governor. A number of gentlemen and ladies were recently much annoyed in Paris by the receipt of anonymous letters filled with every conceivable securifity and obscently. They were accused by this writer of commutting every erime—of being the vibes of the vibe. Three or four of those thin abused entered into compact to discover the writer, who, after much research, wis found to be an old maid of great westin and notice family, and which had always borne the reputation of seing morbidly wirtous and susterely pious. The revenge taken by the party was very singular. They published all the letters, with all their horrors, leaving out the names of those to whom they were addressed and giving that of the writer!

Mr. Seymour is elittler creation. His face is an outlined wriggle. Its expression is a dodge. He looks like a boned man, after the method of the boned tarkey. In physical as in moral dignity he is not up to the levelof recent Democranc Precidents. Frank Pherce was hearty, downright constant. Tyler was the least obsumate. Polk was surely and sincere. Van Buren was a man of wide accomplishments, and with the courage to face his party and break it in two. Horatio Seymour has no individuality that you can put your hand on, nuless slipporines be one, and the exacultio of his character is vauge and faint. Of politician there is plenty to him, of personality sorting. I saw him come home a victor from the convention he had so canningly manipulated, and I wondered that the Democratic party has been so unjust to itself as to name the nonderection man for its standard bevere. For the Democratic party has standard bevere.

Oil City, so often acourged by fire, has been again visited by the devouring element. At seven o'clock yesterday morning, those living in the immediate neighborhood of Parker's Landing were startled by the cry of fire, and soon found that the flames were issuing from the Fire Engine House. An immediate rally of all the help at hand was made, and hopes were fully entertained that the fire could be confined to the building in which it originated, but the highly inflammable - nature of all the buildings adjoining wind at the time fanned the fire and soon the conviction forced liself upon the minds of all, that an extensive configration would ensue.-The steam thre engine of the place was prompt y on hand and manned skillfully, but the area burning buildings increased so rapidly that one steamer could effort but little. A telegram was dispatched to Franklin, and in forty minutes from the time the Chief Engineer of that city got the word the fire laddles of Franklin Fire Company No. 1, were at Oil City and as soon thereafter as possible had a stream on the burning buildings. Fisher Beos, set their steam pump at work and rendered efficient help sectalnigity determined to contest inch by fact the progress of the devouring element.
